SOCIAL SCIENCE INTERDISCIPLINARY

Courses

SSC 200. Social Science Integrated. 3 Hours
A theme-based course that varies across sections but shares common learning outcomes. Application of social science methods and social theory to critically examine human issues and problems from the perspective of at least three social science disciplines (anthropology, economics, political science, psychology and sociology). The course will emphasize outcomes related to scholarship, critical evaluation of our times, and the diversity of the human world. Prerequisite(s): Sophomore standing.
