1 The credit hours listed reflect what is needed to complete each CAP component. However, they should not be viewed as a cumulative addition to a student’s degree requirements because many CAP courses are designed to satisfy more than one CAP component (e.g., Crossing Boundaries and Advanced Studies) and may also satisfy requirements in the student’s major.
2 May be completed with ASI 110 and ASI 120 through the Core Program.
3 May be completed with ENG 100A and ENG 100B, by placement.
4 May be completed with ENG 114 or ENG 198 or ASI 120.
5 Must include two different disciplines and at least one accompanying lab.
6 U.S. History AP and CLEP credit will not satisfy this requirement.
7 May be completed with ASI 110 and ASI 120 through the Core Program. U.S. History AP and CLEP credit will not satisfy this requirement.
8 May not double count with First-Year Humanities Commons, Second-Year Writing, Oral Communication, Social Science, Arts, or Natural Sciences CAP components, but may double count with courses taken to satisfy other CAP components and/or courses taken in the student’s major.
The course or experience is designed by faculty in each major; it may, or may not, be assigned credit hours.

Courses

CMM 100. Principles of Oral Communication. 3 Hours
Introduces the relationship between communication and democratic life in contemporary and historical contexts. This course examines the importance of communication in achieving mutual understanding and provides the opportunity to demonstrate effective and ethical dialogue. Students learn to structure messages that deliver complex information to non-experts, effectively advocate a position, and critique the messages of others.

CMM 113. Interviewing. 1 Hour
Communication processes for information gathering and employment interviewing. Focus is on the development of general competencies in the conduct and organization of interviews, preparation of resumes, evaluation of questions and responses, research, listening, and nonverbal communication.

CMM 201. Foundations of Mass Communication. 3 Hours
Historical development of mass media in America; survey of mass media theories, impact of mass media on people and society, the role and influence of the news media, new technologies, programming, and pressure groups.

CMM 202. Foundations of Communication Theories & Research. 3 Hours
Study of the nature and scope of communication theories and research. Examination of how the communication discipline developed from classical traditions to its modern perspective.

CMM 313. Nonverbal Communication. 3 Hours
Overview of theory and application of nonverbal communication, raising students’ awareness of their own and others’ nonverbal behaviors, enhancing interpretation of messages and adaptation to changing cultural and relational contexts. Prerequisite(s): CMM 100 (may be taken at the same time).

CMM 315. International Mass Media. 3 Hours
Focus on the mass media of a particular foreign country or region of the world. Topics may include media content, use, societal effects and ownership.

CMM 316. Intercultural Communication. 3 Hours
Study of interpersonal communication with emphasis on people from different countries and with different cultural backgrounds. Focus on the influence of culture on communication and language, verbal and nonverbal communication similarities and differences from culture to culture, the articulation of strategies for achieving successful intercultural communication, and the providing of solutions for intercultural miscommunication. Prerequisite(s): CMM 100 (may be taken at the same time) and Sophomore standing or higher.

CMM 320. Interpersonal Communication. 3 Hours
Study of communication behavior in a variety of dyadic relationships including friendship, work, romantic, and family. Focus on communicative behavior and communicative processes in relationship development and maintenance including perception-taking, building trust, managing conflict, negotiating power, and listening empathetically. Prerequisite(s): CMM 100 (may be taken at the same time).

CMM 321. Small Group Communication. 3 Hours
Examination of theory and research related to communicative processes in small, task-oriented groups. Applications include a focus upon decision-making strategies, leadership, conflict management, and cohesion. Prerequisite(s): CMM 100.
CMM 322. Interviewing for Communication & Business. 3 Hours
Analysis of communication in structured dyadic interaction. Emphasis on the following types of interviews: information-gathering, employment, appraisal, and persuasive. Application through role-playing and feedback systems. Prerequisite(s): CMM 100.

CMM 330. Media Writing. 3 Hours
Students develop and practice writing skills for journalism and public relations across media platforms. Course introduces techniques for writing news and information for mass audiences, news principles and values, and skills for gathering information and interviewing. Clarity and accuracy are emphasized.

CMM 331. Feature Writing. 3 Hours

Steps of free-lance publication, from market analysis to query letters to writing and rewriting. Mostly nonfiction, magazine markets, some newspaper and nonfiction book markets.

CMM 334. Sports Writing. 3 Hours
In addition to game stories, attention is also paid to writing about personalities, legal issues, and financial issues on the interscholastic, intercollegiate, amateur, and professional levels. Strong writing skills and knowledge of journalistic style expected. Prerequisite(s): CMM 330.

CMM 335. Journalists in Film. 3 Hours
Exploration of the myths, stereotypes, adventures, romances, and realities of journalism through a look at how the field is portrayed in a wide-ranging view of creative works about journalists and journalism in the 20th and 21st centuries. Images of journalists are shaped and formed in part by popular culture mythologies in film and television, as well as other media. Students will examine the role of the journalist character in a variety of film and television genres including dramas, comedies, satires, film noir, thrillers, and biopics. Prerequisite(s): CMM 201.

CMM 337. Journalism Ethics and Values. 3 Hours
Exploration of the ethics and values that guide the practice of journalism. Students will develop knowledge of theories and frameworks for journalistic principles and practices, and critically examine and evaluate historical and current ethical challenges. Through discussion, research, and case studies, students will enhance their awareness of ethical issues in journalism and their ability to make ethical choices in all aspects of reporting and public engagement. Prerequisite(s): PHL 103, CMM 100, ASI 110, ASI 120 (may be taken at the same time).

CMM 338. Reporting. 3 Hours
Exploration of issues and institutions of public concern through accurate and ethical beat reporting. Students develop news judgment and research strategies, including accessing public documents and interviewing, and build skills for reporting and editing across media platforms. Prerequisite(s): CMM 100 (may be taken at the same time), CMM 330.

CMM 340. Fundamentals of Broadcasting. 3 Hours
Survey of broadcasting, with emphasis on television and radio networks, programming, regulation, audience measurement, audience effects, and technology. Although attention is given both to the origins and future of the field, contemporary broadcasting is emphasized.

CMM 341. Audio Production. 3 Hours
Study of the theories, processes, and technologies of audio production practices that can be applied in radio, television, and multimedia production. Experiential learning in the recording of voice, location specific sound and special effects. Course includes the operation of basic studio and field equipment, including analog and basic digital recording and editing. Audio is a vital form of communication. As media makers, students will learn how to use audio to convey a sense of place, emotion, atmosphere, as well as tell a story. This class will focus on learning field recording techniques to capture high quality audio in a variety of situations. There will be exercises in the recording of voice, location sound and special effects. This course includes the operation of basic studio and field equipment, including editing with Pro Tools. Students will dive into the fundamentals of sound and field recording through lectures, hands on labs, readings and assignments. Prerequisite(s): CMM 100 (may be taken at the same time).

CMM 342. Fundamentals of Video Production. 3 Hours
Explores the techniques of studio and remote video production. Includes the technical and creative aspects of planning and script preparation, producing, directing, technical directing, graphics, editing, camera, lighting, and sound for a variety of video programs.

CMM 343. Writing for Electronic and Digital Media. 3 Hours

CMM 344. Multimedia Design & Production I. 3 Hours
Introduction to producing in the interactive media of CD-ROM and other digital formats. Reviews basic object linking and embedding in familiar computer programs such as Word, PowerPoint, and Freelance Graphics. Students build skills in multimedia authoring, using all the fundamental tools of graphics, text, audio, and video.

CMM 345. Classic American Film. 3 Hours
Introduction to classic U.S. films through the ages. Revolves around the viewing and analysis of significant Hollywood films. Course varies topically, ranging from a broad overview of classic American films to versions examining a particular film genre to versions exploring a theme through the medium of classic film. May be repeated once as topics change. Prerequisite(s): CMM 100 (may be taken at the same time).

CMM 346. Topics in Film Genre. 3 Hours
Survey of films revolving around the viewing and analysis of significant films in a particular genre. Each iteration of this topics course focuses on one specific genre, such as mystery and suspense films, road films, movie musicals, westerns, science fiction and fantasy films, adventure films, or film noir. This course may be repeated once, for credit as topics change.

CMM 347. Post Production. 3 Hours
This course combines the technical aspects of post-production workflow, editing software and a comprehensive overview of editing theory. Students will be able to construct media content using the industry standard editing softwares, Avid Media Composer and Adobe Premiere. In this class students will grow as storytellers by developing the ability to deconstruct editing decisions and by analyzing the ethical considerations within editing. This course will also be a required course for students in the Media Production concentration of the CMM major. Prerequisite(s): CMM 100, CMM 341, CMM 342, CMM 343.
CMM 348. Animation Effects. 3 Hours
The interactive world of media enables communicators to develop exciting new ways to reach their audience from multiple mediums. This course uses Adobe After Effects CC to present ways to animate text, still images in various ways, interactive features, audio & video, and combinations of other means made possible through the advancement of technology. We will examine how designing creative projects interact in this professional world of media which we see all around us. Prerequisite(s): CMM 100 (may be taken at the same time), CMM 342.

CMM 349. Documentary Theory. 3 Hours
Study of the different modes and theories within the documentary genre.
