

PROGRAMS OF STUDY

To learn more about the programs in the School of Education and Health Sciences, explore the departments:

- Health and Sport Science (<http://catalog.udayton.edu/undergraduate/schoolofeducationandhealthsciences/programsofstudy/healthandsportscience/>)
- Teacher Education (<http://catalog.udayton.edu/undergraduate/schoolofeducationandhealthsciences/programsofstudy/teachereducation/>)

Individually Designed Major

Students demonstrating extraordinary interest, special skills or needs, and sound academic status may initiate an individually designed major. Students carry the responsibility to find a faculty mentor or advisor for such major. All University and School of Education and Health Sciences requirements for the Bachelor of Science in Education must be fulfilled. The degree received will be a Bachelor of Science in Education with the major Education and Allied Studies. Plans for such major must be submitted to the appropriate chairpersons and the SEHS Dean's Office for final approval. Plans may be altered with appropriate supporting rationale and the approval of the department chairperson and dean.