

ROESCH LIBRARY

Roesch Library has more than 1.7 million print and electronic books (<https://libguides.udayton.edu/ebook-collections/>), subscribes to more than 400 databases (<https://libguides.udayton.edu/article-databases-to-start-your-research/>), and provides access to 100,000 print and electronic journals, as well as 60,000 streaming videos (<https://libguides.udayton.edu/streaming-video-collections/>). Through OhioLINK—a statewide consortium of college and university libraries—students, faculty, and staff can access approximately 44 million additional items at member institutions, delivered on demand within a few days. A Federal Depository Library since 1969, Roesch Library also provides access to government records in physical and electronic forms.

With limited exception, Roesch Library is open every day, normally until 5 a.m. during regular weeks of the term and 24 hours during exam weeks. Research and writing assistance is available in a variety of forms (<https://udayton.edu/libraries/help.php>).

Computers are available, as well as wall-mounted monitors, cameras, phone chargers, e-readers, and various other types of media equipment. Multi-function printers, available with a University login, can print, scan, and copy in grayscale and color. Open study areas are available throughout the building with noise levels that vary by floor—noisy, conversational, considerate, and silent. Students, faculty, and staff also can use an online reservation system (<http://libcal.udayton.edu/>) to book study rooms, huddle rooms, and team rooms. Wi-Fi is available throughout the building.

The Libraries also provide all University of Dayton students, faculty, and staff with access to an online subscription to The New York Times (<https://libguides.udayton.edu/media/nyt/>) free of charge. Community programs address a variety of curricular topics and current issues. An open-access institutional repository, eCommons (<http://ecommons.udayton.edu/>), provides a permanent and discoverable electronic archive of University scholarship, culture, and documents.
